TRANSPORTATION LINE IS DESIRE OF CITIZENS

Bradbury Heights Association Takes Up Problem at Opening Meeting of Season.

That some means of permanent transportation be provided for the suburb of Bradbury Heights is the question that will be given much consideration this season by the citizens' association of that suburb. This decision was reached last night at the opening meeting of that body in the school building off from the Naylor road, J. E. Crowder, president, in the chair. Several members outlined plans that had been suggested. The one which the association is anxious to secure is the extension of the electric railway from Anacostia by way of Good Hope. The present solution seems to be the operation of an automobile bus line and efforts along this line will also be made.

The need of a new school building is becoming more evident each month, according to the association, and especially yesterday, the opening day of school, when more than sixty scholars were enrolled. The building is entirely too small to adequately accommodate the present number and will not permit of any expansion. The school committee was instructed to do everything in its power to secure a new building this season.

A request will be made to the authorities that the $7,000 appropriated by the last Congress for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue between Branch road and Bowen road be expended before the bad weather arrives, in order that traffic might be interfered with as little as possible during the construction work. A request will also be made for the improvement of the Bowen road as far as the District line.
